INTRODUCTION

The governance of foundations requires the efficient use of their tangible and intangible assets to ensure that their purposes are met.

Based on this premise, Scottish Power Foundation (the “Foundation”) believes in the importance of adopting good corporate governance practices as a requirement not only to properly achieve its purposes but also to further its social contribution and transparency in its activities, thereby strengthening its reputation and building the trust of the communities in those regions in which it carries out its activities.

Therefore, the Board of Trustees approves this Good Governance Code for the Foundation (the “Good Governance Code”), which reflects recommendations on good governance for non-profit entities and the principles of social responsibility for foundations, as well as the requirements of Scottish charity law.

The Foundation was incorporated on 14 March 2013, is registered as a company limited by guarantee with Companies House (company number SC445116), and is registered with the Office of the Scottish Charity Regulator as a Scottish charity (charity number SC043862). The Foundation’s constitutional document is its Memorandum and Articles of Association (the “Articles”).

The Board of Trustees, in order to improve the Foundation’s governance system, wishes to create a governance system that articulates a simple organisational structure which can readily be presented to, and be understood by, all those parties interested in furthering its purposes.

The Foundation’s governance system is structured around the Articles and this Good Governance Code, which, together with law, constitute its basic rules.

This Good Governance Code, which interprets and further complements the Articles in accordance with generally recognised principles, missions and values in the area of charitable entities, within the framework of its purposes, is an instrument that serves as a guide for the trustees and other personnel providing their services at the Foundation to carry out their activities in conformity with such principles, mission and values.

   b. in the areas of restoration, development and conservation of the cultural heritage, as well as the development of projects and activities to promote and disseminate art and culture, and to technically and financially support cultural and artistic activities carried out by public and private institutions;

d) the prevention or relief of poverty and the relief of those in need by reason of disability or other disadvantage, in particular, the development of initiatives to support social action in the areas of cooperation and solidarity in order to actively contribute to the improvement of the quality of life of the most underprivileged groups, through initiatives for the development of infrastructure and services that provide for their full social and labour integration, as well as professional training, insertion into the work force and the generation of employment opportunities for disadvantaged persons that allows for the creation of jobs for them, and ultimately, for the integration into the labour market;

e) the advancement of citizenship and community development.
